Description:
When the honeybee population disappears and a pandemic sweeps across the planet, the government tried a bio-engineered cure even deadlier than the problem. Branded with the mark of the vaccine, Fiona must navigate this new dystopian world. But there's no cure for being stung. Fiona doesn't remember going to sleep. But when she opens her eyes, she discovers her entire world has been altered—her house is abandoned and broken, and the entire neighborhood is barren and dead. Even stranger is the tattoo on her right wrist—a black oval with five marks on either side—that she doesn't remember getting but somehow knows she must cover at any cost. And she's right. When the honeybee population collapsed, a worldwide pandemic occurred and the government tried to bio-engineer a cure. Only the solution was deadlier than the original problem—the vaccination turned people into ferocious, deadly beasts who were branded as a warning to un-vaccinated survivors. Key people needed to rebuild society are protected from disease and beasts inside a fortress-like wall. But Fiona has awakened branded, alone—and on the wrong side of the wall. . . . This one has been on my TBR Kindle shelf for a long time, and I decided it was time to read it. I'm just sorry I waited as long as I did. This book begins with Fiona waking up in her home to find nothing the way she remembered. She remembers blowing out the candles at her 13th birthday, but doesn't understand what has gone wrong since then. Her house is a wreck, she can't find her family, there is no water, what happened?? And why does she have a crazy tattoo on her hand that she feels the need to cover up? Its even worse when she ventures outside. This is classic dystopian, the kind that is hard to wrap your head around, but it sucks you in, you can't put down and you finish in 2 days. Also, did I mention, honeybees and crazy beasts?!! I loved it and can't wait to read Cured! Well done.
